Chairman's Message

DSM has completed a very important period of its operation and is now embarking on an equally significant phase as it is turning into a shareholding company.

The release of the 2006 Annual Report coincides with the Company's 10th year of operation. Doha Securities Market (DSM), which was established a decade ago by an Emiri Decree, truly embodies the strong and penetrating vision of H.H. the Emir for a bright economic future for the State of Qatar; a future that promises peace and prosperity all loyal citizens as well as for the wise leadership.

The past ten years have witnessed the strengthening of the market's fundamentals, and the expansion of its base. The market's manual trading system became fully computerized using the most up-to-date technologies and programs. The number of listed companies has risen from a very limited number with a market capitalization of around QR 6 billion to 36 companies with a market capitalization well above the QR 200 billion mark.

Of equal significance is the investors' base at DSM which has grown from just few thousands at the time of inception in May 1997 to include most Qatari nationals. This further increased to more than 800,000 investors after non-Qataris were allowed to trade in DSM by virtue of Law No. (2) of 2005.

With the issuance of a Decree establishing Qatar Financial Markets Authority (QFMA) and Doha Securities Market Company (DSMC), DSM has completed a very important period of its operation and is now embarking on an equally significant phase as it is turning into a shareholding company. This new development will ensure that the management of trading operations and the dissemination of information to shareholders of listed companies will be conducted in a more efficient and specialized manner with the highest degree of fairness and integrity. Qatar Financial Markets Authority will play its role as a regulator, a licensor and a monitor of the market, besides being a fair arbitrator between all parties concerned.

We hope that the new phase will elevate DSM into an international entity which strictly adheres to the world's best practices and international standards such as the one set by the International Organization of Securities Commission (IOSCO).

Yousuf Hussein Kamal

Global Stock Exchanges

Despite the subsequent slowdown in economic growth experienced in the United States in 2006, the three main financial market indicators ended the year with an upward trend.

For the third year in a row the Global Stock Exchanges (GSE) experienced significantly above-trend growth, and continued its strong rally to report solid performances in 2006. The growth has continued to become more balanced with the economic growth of the United States slowing down, the Euro picking up, and Japan's growth moderating. Driven by strong commodity and energy prices, higher inflationary rates, and good economic fundamentals, the strong performance of the GSE was attributed to the extraordinary growth of emerging markets as well as developing countries.

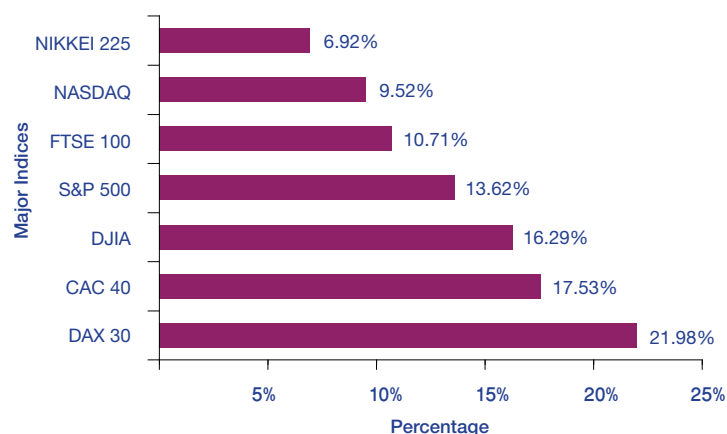

Despite the subsequent slowdown in economic growth experienced in the United States in 2006, the three main financial market indicators ended the year with an upward trend. The Dow Jones Industrial Average (DJIA) closed above the historic 12,000-point mark for the first time ever and maintained this level throughout 2006, reporting a 16.29% increase to close the year at 12,463.15 points. The S&P 500 index moved in similar fashion to end the year at 1,418.30 points or 13.62% increase. The NASDAQ Composite closed higher by 9.52% or at 2,415.29 points in 2006 compared to 2005.

Moving in similar directions was the performance of the European Stock Exchanges. The biggest advancer in 2006 was the German DAX 30 which outperformed most European Stock Exchanges by climbing 21.98% and closed the year at 6,596.92 points. The French CAC 40 rose by 17.53% to close at 5,541.76 points, followed by the UK's FTSE 100 which ended 2006 with a 10.71% increase and closed at 6,220.80 points.

In Japan, the NIKKEI 225 closed at 17,225.83 points, with a 6.92% increase, compared to the previous year's closing; figure (1).

GCC & Arab Stock Exchanges

The markets correction, the remarkable boom in the real estate market sector, the increase in interest rates and the sensitivity of the American-Iranian issue affected the GCC and Arab stock exchanges.

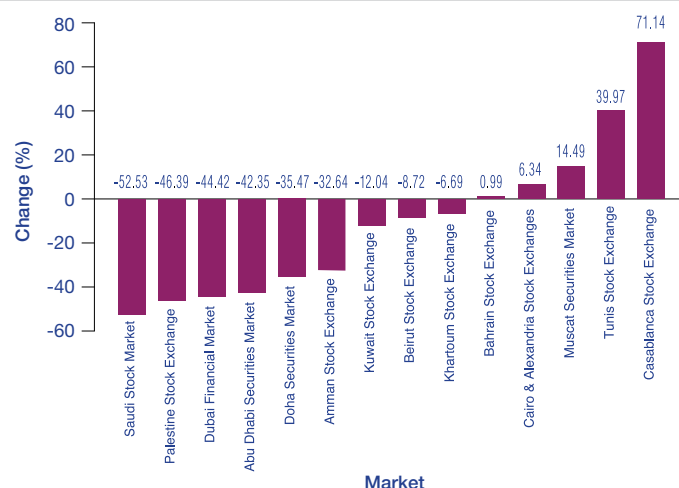

Contrary to the performances of the GSE, most of the Gulf Cooperation Council (GCC) and a few of the Arab Stock Exchanges rounded off the year 2006 with a negative trend. The main driving force behind the poor performance, particularly for the GCC markets, can be attributed to several key factors, including the markets correction which reduced share prices substantially in most of these markets, the remarkable boom in the real estate sector, which shifted liquidity away from the stock markets, the increase in interest rates especially since GCC currencies are pegged with the US Dollar, and the sensitivity of the American-Iranian issue.

The majority of the GCC and Arab Stock Exchanges floundered to post poor performances at the end of 2006. Foremost was the Saudi Financial Market registering a 52.53% reduction in the index performance. The Palestinian Securities Exchange came second with a 46.39% drop in 2006. Lagging marginally behind was the Dubai Financial Market with a 44.42% drop. The Abu Dhabi Securities Market moved in the same direction registering a decrease of 42.35% in index performance followed by Doha Securities Market which went down by 35.47%. Amman Stock Exchange reported a 32.64% decline in performance; followed by Kuwait, Beirut, and Khartoum Stock Exchanges with reductions of 12.04%, 8.72% and 6.69%, respectively.

On the other hand and in terms of indices performance, the Casablanca Stock Exchange in Morocco delivered the strongest performance in 2006 and was viewed as the best performer among the GCC and Arab Stock Exchanges with a considerable increase of 71.14%. The Tunis Stock Market trailed second registering a strong gain of 39.97% in index closings. Third was the Muscat Securities Market recording a 14.49% increase. The Egyptian Stock Market ranked fourth with a moderate gain of 6.34%, followed by the Bahrain Stock Exchange with a 0.99% increase; figure (2).

Market Performance

The continuation of the positive economic indicators witnessed by the Qatari economy and, the accumulation of the remarkable gains observed by the listed companies had a positive impact on the performance of DSM during 2006.

The performance of Doha Securities Market (DSM) in 2006 was surprisingly slower than that of 2005. The slow performance stemmed from several economic factors principally the market correction witnessed by DSM which reduced share prices significantly, coupled with an increase in interest rates and a decline in liquidity levels. Among other factors were the political aspects caused by the tension of the Iranian nuclear issue as well as the Lebanese issue. Moreover, the investment decision made by investors was heavily influenced by their own behavior and not judged by the characteristics of the overall economic activities and the actual financial positions of listed companies.

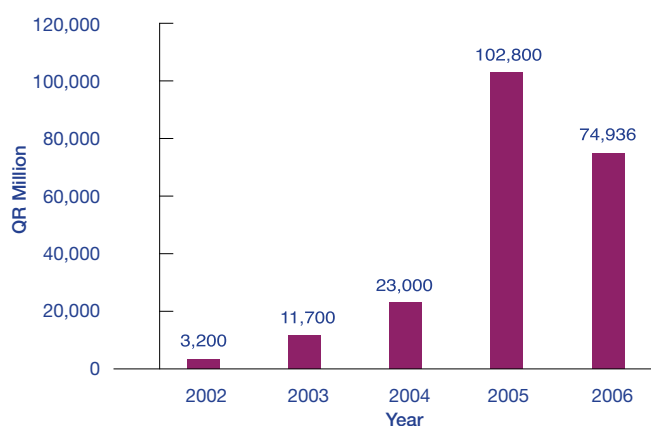

On the other hand, the continuation of the positive economic indicators witnessed by the Qatari economy and the accumulation of the remarkable gains observed by the listed companies adequately offset the reduction levels, and positively affected the performance of DSM during 2006.

DSM Trading Activities

In addition to the value of shares traded, 2006 saw the trading activities of DSM exhibit a notable variation in terms of the volumes of executed transactions. DSM revealed a reduction of 27.13% reaching QR 74.9 billion in the value of shares traded in 2006 compared to QR 102.8 billion in 2005. On the other hand, the number of traded shares increased drastically by 80.57%, reaching 1.87 billion shares in 2006, compared to 1.03 billion shares in 2005. Similarly, the number of executed transactions moved in the same direction registering a 53.32% increase and reaching 1,732,638 executed transactions in 2006 versus 1,130,047 executed transactions in 2005; figure (3).

Figure (3)

Value of Shares Traded (2002-2006)

DSM Performance

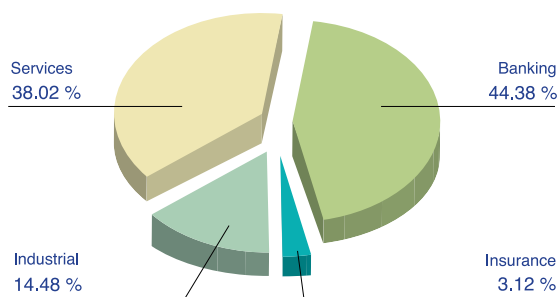

The total value of shares traded reached an aggregate value of QR 33.3 billion and the DSM M-Cap, representing the market value of all listed companies, reached QR 221.7 billion.

Sector Analysis

Reaching an aggregate value of QR 33.3 billion, the Banking sector was the best performer accounting for 44.38% of the total value of shares traded. The Services sector ranked second with 38.02%, claiming QR 28.5 billion, followed by the Industrial sector with 14.48% or QR 10.8 billion in 2006. Accounting for 3.12% or QR 2.3 billion of the total value of shares traded, the Insurance sector trailed fourth; figure (4).

Figure (4)

Value of Shares Traded by Sector (2006)

Market Capitalization (M-Cap)

The DSM M-Cap, representing the market value of all listed companies, reached QR 221.7 billion exhibiting a reduction of 30.10% compared to QR 317.2 billion in 2005. The reduction in market capitalization can be largely attributed to the reduction in the share prices of 34 out of the 36 companies listed on DSM at the end of 2006. The listing of 4 new companies with an approximation of 10.05% of the total market capitalization reduced the level of decline in the market capitalization during the year.

Market Index

Despite its performance in 2005, the DSM Price Index dropped heavily in 2006. The index declined markedly from 11,053.06 points at the end of 2005, with a cumulative percentage fall of 35.47%, to close the year at 7,133.00 points. Although the DSM Price Index recouped some of its losses during the year, it continued to lose further ground throughout the year.

During 2006, in particular, January 2, 2006, the DSM Price Index registered its highest level with 11,219.98 points and adversely, in December 5, 2006, it observed its lowest level at 5,825.80 points.

Losses swept across all the four-sector indices with the Industrial sector reporting the biggest drop of 39.96% compared to the remaining three sectors. The Banking sector was down by 36.91%, the Insurance sector by 36.13% and the Services sector by 28.91%; figure (5).
